

ODE Transformative Dermatology

Leading Australian dermatologist Dr Shyamalar Gunatheesan has opened ODE Transformative Dermatology in Melbourne's inner-city suburb of Fitzroy. ODE is the first transformative dermatology practice of its kind in Australia to offer patients holistic, bespoke treatment solutions for wide-ranging dermatological conditions – a skin clinic without the clinical feel. "The vision that I had was very strong. Having worked in dermatology for 15 years, I knew what I wanted and what I don't want," Dr Gunatheesan says. While most patients come to ODE with a medical condition, they often stay for the aesthetic treatments on offer, whether it's laser, BBL, or even body sculpting with BTL's EmSculpt. The state of the art interior design is more akin to a luxury hotel than a dermatology clinic, with rich velvets and draped curtains, and the piece de resistance – a hanging garden in the decompression lounge, where patients get to relax with a glass of collagen water in hand. ODE aims to reinvent the client experience, and create something that hasn't quite been done before. This could be the future of dermatology clinics. ODEDERMATOLOGY.COM.AU

The Skin Bar

The third addition to owner and director Samantha Appel's locations is The Skin Bar Double Bay. A small but inviting 'green oasis' designed by The Make Haus, the skin clinic features green floors and walls all over the reception area and two treatment rooms. Over the years, Appel has worked in skin clinics mastering a range of skin treatments including lasers, fraxels, IPLs, needling devices and standard facials. After consistently seeing the amazing results skin needling achieves, Appel has now specialised in the treatment, creating bespoke treatments with different kinds of serums infused into the skin. The Skin Bar also offers LED, herbal facials and peels using Dr Spiller products, and cosmelan. Appel is a true believer that every skin is different and each client should have a personable program to help them achieve their own individual results. The Skin Bar's other locations include Cronulla and Brookvale. THESKINBAR.COM.AU

Q-Tox

Q-Tox opened in Bondi Junction in October of last year, aiming to do things a little different in the injectables market. Offerings include injectables and threads, but practitioners are also trained to educate patients about plastic surgery procedures should they be interested, before referring them onto local Plastic Surgeons. Another point of difference for the new clinic, which was founded by Kian Moini (son of the founder of Laser Clinics Australia, Babak Moini), is their LED membership. For just $15/week, clients can get unlimited use of the clinic's Spectrum LED to treat their skin and indulge in some me-time with a guided meditation available while relaxing on the treatment bed. Not only can this membership be cancelled at any time, but members also get $16.50 in credit every week which they can redeem on products and treatments. The two main treatment rooms are divided by a sliding wall, giving Moini the chance to turn the clinic into one big space for training or events. Q-TOX.COM.AU
